

Talking about (the Silencing of)

On its Epistemological
and Political Challenges

Interdisciplinary
and International Conference

16–17
January
2025

Frankfurt am Main,
Germany
talkingpalestine.de

Palestine

Critical Histories of Palestine
Contextualizing Racism and Antisemitism
Epistemic Violence in Palestine
The Relation of Science, Social Movements and the Question of Democracy
Contemporary Research on Palestine
International Law and the Genocide Trials
(Theorizing) Concrete Utopias of Palestine

Talking about (the Silencing of)

On its Epistemological
and Political Challenges

Interdisciplinary
and International Conference

16–17
January
2025

Frankfurt am Main,
Germany
talkingpalestine.de

Palestine

Critical Histories of Palestine
Contextualizing Racism and Antisemitism
Epistemic Violence in Palestine
The Relation of Science, Social Movements and the Question of Democracy
Contemporary Research on Palestine
International Law and the Genocide Trials
(Theorizing) Concrete Utopias of Palestine

Talking about...

16–17
January
2025

Frankfurt am Main,
Germany
talkingpalestine.de

Critical Histories of
Palestine

Contextualizing Racism
& Antisemitism

Epistemic Violence
in Palestine

The Relation of Science,
Social Movement & the Question of Democracy

Contemporary Research
on Palestine

International Law
& the Genocide Trials

(Theorizing) Concrete
Utopias of Palestine

(the Silencing of)...

In recent years, the gap in academic research and open discourse on Palestine within German universities has expanded, primarily due to the repression of critical voices and restrictive funding policies. This limitation in knowledge production raises significant concerns about academic freedom, particularly in contexts where institutional pressures stifle scholarly research and open debate about the humanitarian crisis in Palestine.

The upcoming conference seeks to address these concerns by bringing together international scholars from fields such as Palestine Studies, Genocide Studies, Holocaust Studies and further Interdisciplinary approaches. The event aims to highlight the consequences of silencing academic inquiry, as the lack of research in this area goes hand in hand with the normalisation of violence in Palestine rendering its suffering invisible, amidst what several leading human rights organizations and international courts deem a plausible case of genocide.

We invite you to join us in this critical dialogue, as we work to revitalize academic scholarship on Palestine and uphold the principles of academic freedom and intellectual diversity in Germany universities.

Register now!

Palestine

Talking about...

16–17
January
2025

Frankfurt am Main,
Germany
talkingpalestine.de

Critical Histories of
Palestine

Contextualizing Racism
& Antisemitism

Epistemic Violence
in Palestine

The Relation of Science,
Social Movement & the Question of Democracy

Contemporary Research
on Palestine

International Law
& the Genocide Trials

(Theorizing) Concrete
Utopias of Palestine

(the Silencing of)...

In recent years, the gap in academic research and open discourse on Palestine within German universities has expanded, primarily due to the repression of critical voices and restrictive funding policies. This limitation in knowledge production raises significant concerns about academic freedom, particularly in contexts where institutional pressures stifle scholarly research and open debate about the humanitarian crisis in Palestine.

The upcoming conference seeks to address these concerns by bringing together international scholars from fields such as Palestine Studies, Genocide Studies, Holocaust Studies and further Interdisciplinary approaches. The event aims to highlight the consequences of silencing academic inquiry, as the lack of research in this area goes hand in hand with the normalisation of violence in Palestine rendering its suffering invisible, amidst what several leading human rights organizations and international courts deem a plausible case of genocide.

We invite you to join us in this critical dialogue, as we work to revitalize academic scholarship on Palestine and uphold the principles of academic freedom and intellectual diversity in Germany universities.

Register now!

Palestine